NOAH HOLDINGS LIMITED ANNOUNCES UPDATED 2012 FORECAST

SHANGHAI, CHINA — July 17, 2012 — Noah Holdings Limited (“Noah” or the “Company”) (NYSE: NOAH), the leading independent service provider focusing on distributing wealth management products to the high net worth population in China, today announced its updated 2012 forecast.

The Company currently estimates that non-GAAP net income attributable to Noah shareholders for the full year 2012 is expected to be in a range of US$22.0 million and US$25.0 million, the midpoint of the revised range represents a year-over-year decline of approximately 10%. This estimate reflects management’s current assessment and is subject to change. Noah’s non-GAAP net income is net income under US GAAP excluding the effects of all forms of share-based compensation.

“The growth in our business has been slower than we had anticipated. Uncertainty of macro environment continued to impact clients’ risk appetite, affecting clients’ overall demand for wealth management products Noah distributes and types of products purchased. This, along with lower one-time commission rate from shorter duration of fixed income products purchased by clients, as a result of risk aversion, dampened revenues outlook for the Company this year,” said Tom Wu, Chief Financial Officer. “We remain positive on longer term outlook of China’s wealth management industry, driven by economic growth and liberalization in financial markets in the future, and we have continued to invest in our business, including Noah Upright, our mutual fund distribution business, and our office in Hong Kong. These should further compliment product capability and improve servicing needs of our client base.”
